Country Representative - Mali

The World Agroforestry Centre (ICRAF) is looking for a Country Representative for Mali to work under the overall guidance of the Regional Coordinator for West and Central Africa and in effective partnership with appropriate institutions in the Sahel. S/he will in general spend around 30% of time on research, 20% on project leadership and 50% of time on coordination.

S/he will develop a clear agroforestry strategy for the Sahelian and Dry Savannas in collaboration with the Sahelian institutions and other partners/stakeholders.

S/he will be a point of contact for national and international partners seeking to work with ICRAF in agroforestry R4D in the Sahel, including wide scale dissemination of agroforestry-based innovations.

S/he will lead ICRAF's Agroforestry research agenda in Mali and supervise the team of seconded, nationally and international -recruited staff based in Bamako and as appropriate.

S/he will develop and promote use of assessment tools and models promoting the role of agroforestry in addressing agroforestry systems

President & CEO

London, Ontario, Canada

The relentless pursuit of excellence

Excellence doesn't sit still and wait for you. Excellence needs to be identified and pursued with spirit and determination. The same principle applies to recruiting inspirational leaders. They need to be recognized for their ability to elevate organizations and they must be passionately engaged and inspired to accept new challenges.

Which brings us to you - a proven leader and team builder in search of an inspiring organization.

Embrace this mission as CEO and you can count on your Board of Directors to support ambitious plans to make London Health Sciences Centre an apex performer in the world of healthcare. In return, the Board will count on you to accelerate an acclaimed care, teaching and research hospital on its journey to be a gold standard model of patient experience, quality care and innovation. You will do this by staking a claim as a first-choice employer and developer of world-class medical and non-medical leaders who, through their example, will drive partnership, accountability and culture change in the organization.

Nearly 15,000 dedicated physicians, staff members, students, scientists and volunteers at London Health Sciences Centre provide care and support for those we serve through more than one million patient visits each year. Through its partnerships with Western University and 30 other academic institutions, LHSC trains more than 1,800 medical and health professionals annually. As the major academic health sciences centre in South West Ontario, LHSC takes pride in its role as a healthcare system leader for the region.

Your most important qualification for this transformational role is your ability to motivate, align and empower your teams to take enthusiastic ownership of a bold vision and make it come alive. Whether you are leading a major healthcare organization or an equally demanding, client-focused organization, you have won the respect of your people for your vision, business acumen, relentless pursuit of excellence and ability to deliver results. You are widely recognized as a systems thinker who is
